The system shall allow users to register using their email address.

The system shall allow users to login using a username and password.

The system shall respond to user requests within 3 seconds.

The system shall encrypt user passwords.

The system should be easy to use.